

Education for SDGs specific courses on sustainability

Have dedicated courses (full degrees, or electives) that address sustainability and the SDGs.

The curricula developed and implemented by the University are designed to address local, national, regional, and global healthcare needs. These needs are reflected in the Programme Outcomes (POs) and Course Outcomes (COs), ensuring that the educational offerings align with the dynamic requirements of the healthcare sector, Integrating sustainability and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) preparing students to tackle the complex global challenges.

The curricula includes subjects on environment sustainability, law and jurisprudence.

The NSS Units of University and constituent colleges give hands on training at the sites on SDG 6 & 7.
